Following a request by the UNSG, this PAM mission was also fielded to verify the situation in the Palestinian Refugees Camp (Al Yarmouk), taking into consideration the latest attacks on the Camp (situated in the outskirts of Damascus), which deepened the Humanitarian crisis in Syria and the region.

The PAM Mission to Syria came in collaboration, and as a continuation of the ongoing efforts made by, the International Parliamentary Union, the League of Arab States, the European Union and the various related UN agencies in Syria and Lebanon.

The visit included a number of high-level bilateral consultations in Damascus and Beirut with Speakers of both Parliaments, members of the Syrian Government, UN Agencies and foreign diplomatic representations. The PAM delegation also paid a visit to one of the refugee camps, based in an old school in Damascus, and which is run by the UNHCR and other Syrian NGOs.

Summary of discussions

The discussions with the Syrian Parliament, Government and the various representatives of the UN Agencies and the diplomatic corps in Damascus focused on the Political situation in Syria and the region, the Humanitarian condition of the Syrian people, the threat of terrorism and Foreign Terrorist Fighters and the role that PAM alongside with the international community can play to reach a permanent solution to this ongoing tragedy.

In the meeting with H.E. Mr. Mohammed Jihad Al-Laham, Speaker of the People’s Assembly of Syria, he referred to the Extremism line of thought which is dangerously spreading in several countries of the region. He also accused certain states in the region with supporting and funding the fundamental terrorist groups, in a clear violation to the International law and the United Nations Resolution. He added that there is no political moderate opposition in Syria, as all the groups fighting the Syrian Army now neither can be labelled as political opposition nor as moderate.

He called for PAM to deliver their messages, as a founding member of the Assembly and the representative of the Syrian People, to the United Nations and the international community, to take a firm stand against the states accused and proven to be, according UN reports, assisting the terrorist groups and facilitating selling the oil from the Syrian and Iraqi territory under their occupation. He also called for controlling the boarders between Syria and Turkey, from where the FTF, weapons and aids to the terrorist groups are coming, according to his sources.

He added that the Syrian parliament would be also counting on PAM in the national reconciliation process and the domestic political dialogue, affirming that the Syrian parliament had shown its seriousness to reach a political solution to this crisis, and its willingness to negotiate with any side not using arms and violence to achieve their goals.

In the meeting with H.E. Mr. Omar Ghalawanji, Deputy Prime Minister for Services Affairs, Minister of Local Administration, PAM delegation discussed the Humanitarian situation in Syria. The Syrian Deputy Prime Minister, who is in charge of the National Committee for Relief, thanked PAM for all its effort, since the first official visit to Damascus in 2013, in facilitating the delivery of the Humanitarian assistance, and projecting the gravity of the humanitarian crisis in Syria.

He briefed the delegation on the situation on the ground, the numbers of refugees and the most affected areas in Syria. He showed great appreciation to the international efforts in easing the Humanitarian crisis in Syria, yet he confirmed that, until present, it’s the Syrian Government that is providing 80% of this assistance needed and paying the salaries for all civil servants, with no differentiation whether they are in an area under the control of Government or the terrorist groups.

He referred to the high-level of cooperation between the Syrian Government and the UN Humanitarian Agencies, and that they meet regularly to discuss the developments on the ground. He added that they also share efforts not only in delivering the aids but also to accommodate the displaced families fleeing the troubled areas.
In regards to the Yarmouk Camp, he confirmed that the Syrian Governments facilitated the exit of 2350 families (almost 12 thousand civilian) after the attack on the camp. Also, and in full cooperation with the UNRWA, aids and medical supplies were sent inside of the camp, and the wounded people were evacuated.

The Syrian Deputy Prime Minister urged PAM mission to convey clearly what they have, and will see, during their stay in Syria to the entire world and to work on, using its Parliamentary and UN networks, to stop the usage of the Humanitarian crisis politically to pressure the Syrian regime.

The PAM delegation then had a meeting with H.E. Mr. Waleed El Moaalem, Minister of Foreign Affairs. During this meeting PAM Secretary General, briefed the Syrian Minister of Foreign Affairs on the main activities of PAM in the region and the UN/PAM joint efforts in countering terrorism and the implementation of the UN RES. 2178.

He added that although he failed to get the approval from the different armed forces in Aleppo, yet, the Syrians are still hoping that he can achieve a comprehensive initiative. He confirmed their strong will to work with all different side for reaching a comprehensive and permanent political solution.

He referred to the position of the EU towards Syria and the need to have a drastic change in their approach towards the Syrian crisis. The EU should acknowledge the full picture that the Syrian Army is currently fighting well-equipped and generously funded terrorist groups, like DAESH and AL NUSRA and they have to have free hand on that, or else the crisis will prolong.

In the meeting with H.E. Mr. Vladimir JELTOV, Minister Plenipotentiary of the Embassy of Russian Federation in Damascus, the domestic political situation in Syria was thoroughly discussed, as long as the regional and international developments.

PAM delegation discussed with the Russian Charge d’affair the rising threat of the Terrorist groups in Syria and the region, the phenomena of the FTT and the possible ways of implementing the various relevant UN Resolution. Moreover, the political dialogue and the next rounds of talks (Geneva 2) has been discussed, mainly in regards of who will be representing the opposition, and whether these representatives will have the real power to enforce any reached agreement.

Mr. Il-Hillo briefed PAM mission on all related UN efforts and presence in all the Syrian Cities. Yet, he noted that the Humanitarian situation is not getting any better, due to the ongoing fighting. He confirmed that the number of Syrian civilians in need for aids are rising, and that the Syrian Government is cooperative in providing and facilitating the deliverance of the Humanitarian Assistance. He referred to the importance and fairness to show the positive side that they undertake, especially that they are considered the main provider of humanitarian assistance to all the Syrian people.

The meeting with the Mr. Il-Hillo also touched on the problem of Illegal Migration threatening the lives of thousands of civilians in the Mediterranean Sea, and causing huge economic and social burden on the receiving countries in Europe. Mr. Il-Hillo indicated the significance of dealing with the Humanitarian Situation in Syria or else there will be other waves of migration to Europe, may be directly from the Syrian shores, this time.

On the margin of the bilateral meetings, PAM delegation was invited, along with the EU representative, the Ambassadors of Cyprus and Czech Republic to pay a visit to the National Museum in Damascus. The director of the Museum explained the difficulties they are facing to rescue the historical heritage from the barbaric attacks of the terrorist groups. At present, the Camp, which previously hosted 200,000 persons, counts only a population of some nine thousand persons, who still refuse to evacuate their homes due to their political/military affiliation to ISIS and Al Qaeda. This group is however receiving humanitarian assistance through a dedicated corridor. A delegation from the Palestinian Authority will soon travel to Damascus for discussion with national authorities to address the situation. Hon. Bilal Qasem was briefed by H.E. Meetings in Lebanon:

PAM delegation briefed H.E. Nabih Berry, President of the Lebanese National Assembly on the outcome of the mission to Damascus, the possible political solutions to the Syrian Crisis, and the grave Humanitarian situation, which is directly affecting Lebanon as well.

President Berry mentioned that the political solution in Syria is not something that will be achieved by an internal dialogue between the combating factions. He referred to the similarity between the situation now in Syria and what Lebanon passed through during the civil war. In his opinion, the solution must be a regional agreement between the Syrian regime and all the key players in the region and on the international level, as well; an agreement that would become a constitution to the new Syria.

The discussions with President Berry touched also on the Middle East Peace Process. He highlighted the importance of putting an international pressure on the Israeli government to go back to the direct talks, and to put more pressure to stop the settlement, which is against the International Law.

President Berry stated that he believe in the parliamentary Diplomacy. He added that it opens many doors, which cannot be opened by traditional diplomacy. He urged PAM to continue playing its active role in the Mediterranean, and in particular the Middle East, and to keep on echoing the voice of the Mediterranean people in all regional and international arenas.

PAM delegation concluded their mission to Damascus and Beirut with meeting Mr. Luca Renda, UNDP Country Director in Lebanon, and with Mr. Abdallah AL Dardari, Deputy Executive Secretary, ESCWA. In both meetings, PAM delegation was briefed about the situation in Lebanon and the efforts of the UN, in cooperation with the Lebanese Government, in dealing with the continuous flow of Syrian migrants, and other domestic and regional matters. It has been agreed to work on establishing solid relation between PAM and ESCWA, in the very near future.

Conclusions and Follow-ups:

PAM mission concluded its mission with a positive note based on the commitment shown by the Syrian Parliament and high officials in reaching a permanent political solution to end the three years ongoing crisis.
